There is a lot to LOVE about the Sewickley Public Library By Board Member, Thomas Szuba

There is a lot to love about the Sewickley Public Library: the beautiful historic building, the friendly and helpful staff and volunteers, the wealth of traditional and digital resources, and the many activities and classes available to the public. But I believe that my favorite feature of the library is the many direct and indirect connections it has with our local schools.

In spring 2015, the Sewickley Public Library exhibited a QVHS student's literary analyses and handmade period dresses for heroines Catherine Earnshaw, Elizabeth Bennet, Scarlett O'Hara, and Daisy Buchanan.

My elementary, middle, and high school children have been intellectually and academically nurtured through a wide range of programs and activities offered at the Sewickley Public Library. In recent years, they have participated in the Battle of the Books, the National Novel Writing Month (www.nanowrimo.org), the Young Writers Group, Booked for Lunch (a literature club for middle and high school students), and the Summer Reading Program(s).

Many of these events are advertised through the schools and open to interested students. Some activities, however, are more directly related to the formal educational experiences of the kids. Last spring, for instance, my daughter completed her 10th grade project as a required component of the Quaker Valley curriculum. In an effort to blend her loves of literature and sewing, she read four culturally iconic novels from different historical periods— Wuthering Heights, Pride and Prejudice, Gone with the Wind, and The Great Gatsby—and then created period-accurate dresses for the heroines, Catherine Earnshaw, Elizabeth Bennet, Scarlett O'Hara, and Daisy Buchanan. Library Director Carolyn Toth met with my daughter to discuss the project and was pleased to display the exhibit for the benefit of my child, her assignment, the school district, and library patrons.

The library has also displayed my other children's artwork, conveying to them (and their classmates, who have also had art exhibited at the library) that their artistic endeavors are worth sharing with the world, beginning with the people they see, know, and respect at the library.

The Sewickley Public Library works very intentionally to encourage our children's intellectual and cultural development, offering a support system for their academic pursuits as well as a safe place for them to be creative as writers and artists. Thank you teen librarian, Emily Fear, director Carolyn Toth, other staff and volunteers, and the Quaker Valley School District for instilling in them a love of reading, writing, and the creative arts—and a growing passion for lifelong learning.

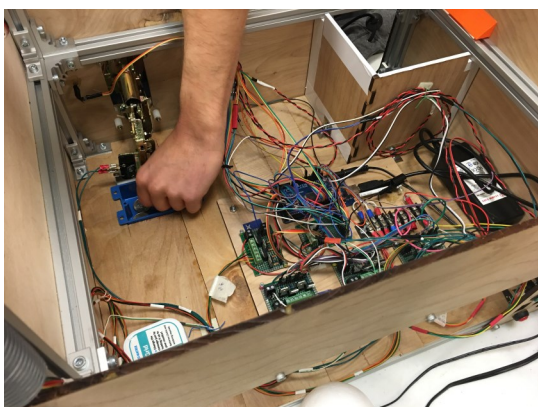

Special Thanks for Many More Unique Donations

- ◇ Thank you Jim Edson and the crew at Bartlett Tree for removing a dying tree and donating and planting a healthy, young Sunrise Red Maple tree near the library's patio. We're also appreciative of the extra landscaping efforts of the team.
- ◇ Thank you to the students at McGuire Memorial Employment Option Center and Janet Huddleston for the decorations hanging above our circulation desk. The McGuire EOC offers day programs for adults with moderate disabilities and/or autism. The artwork was inspired by Henri Matisse.
- ◇ Thank you to Peggy Standish for donating a scrapbook of photos and articles regarding the creation and development of Riverfront Park in Sewickley.
- ◇ Thank you to Chris Bichsel of the Sewickley Confectionery for the donation of yogurt and the Sweetwater Center for the Arts for lending the library easels, and volunteer Kathleen Fear for assisting with the teen program, ExtravaganzART.

Donations, Donations, Donations!

Mary Walker, the Friends of the Library Used Book Sale expert, accepts a wide range of donations. Recently Mary accepted a child's bike and made use of it hauling books and media to her sorting area. Pedal on, Mary!

The Kleeman Klaw Machine

- ◇ Thank you to Floyd Faulkner and the Quaker Valley School District for providing transportation for our GSA students to see a play in town.
- ◇ Thank you to Bill Kleeman for donating the Library's new Kleeman Klaw Machine. The machine, which promotes STEM learning, will be used for programing and outreach purposes.
- ◇ Thank you to Phil McCaffrey of 3RPrep for providing affordable test preparation opportunities to our teens.

A Randi Morgan Retrospective

Randi Morgan, our Exhibits Curator, has announced her retirement effective February 29, 2016. Randi recently wrote me the following note when I inquired about her beginnings as the Exhibits Curator:

“It began in 1998 when I read Cross Country Cat to my son and wondered, where are these drawings now? I suggested that the library do an exhibit of original works from children’s books and the Friends of the Library helped me make that happen.”

It has been a privilege to have Randi share her eye for interesting art and collections with our patrons and staff. Randi’s curiosity about art and culture led her to create remarkable and memorable exhibits. Her talent for discovering and displaying beautiful art and oddities, and creating fun exhibits has captured our attention and has educated us, and given us a new appreciation of human talents and abilities.

Randi is staying in the Sewickley area after retirement and plans on relaxing in the library with a good book or magazine – something she didn’t always have time for while working here. Randi is an artist in her own right and will continue with her jewelry making; she’ll visit museums, and play with her new puppy, Pippi.

On behalf of the Sewickley Public Library,

Carolyn Toth, Library Director

Good luck and best wishes for a satisfying retirement, Randi!

Human Disconnect: March Display Cases will feature the Ceramic Sculpture of Amy Short.

Amy’s series of 23 Terra cotta pieces “explore the beauty of animals, our impact on them and ultimately how our actions impact us...my hope is to create a discussion about what we value as humans and draw attention to how our actions have an impact on the world.”

Amy Short is an instructor at Sweetwater Center for the Arts, and lives in Moon.

The show opens February 16th and runs through March 31st. Join us for an artist reception Sunday, February 21st from 2-4.

Dear Mrs. Crawford,

Eat At Bruegger's and Help Raise Funds for the Library

Sewickley Bruegger's and the Friends of the Sewickley Public Library are getting together to raise money for the Library. You can help the Library, just by eating at Bruegger's on select Saturdays!! Fundraisers will take place on the first Saturday of every month. All you have to do is bring a coupon to Bruegger's on the fundraising Saturday and 15% of your total purchase will go to the Friends of the Sewickley Public Library. Now, it's really easy to help your Library just by eating a bagel. Don't forget to bring a coupon and eat at Bruegger's.

Want to make a donation? There are many ways to help!
